Which, if any, of the following do you think will be the most NEGATIVE impacts from leaving the European Union? Please tick up to three.

Goods and services will become more expensive in the shops
Companies will be less likely to invest in Britain without access to EU markets
British exporters will find it harder to trade because of export barriers and tariffs
The British economy will go into recession
There will be a reduction in regulations protecting workers rights and holiday entitlements
Much of Britain's financial services industry will move to other European cities
British people wouldn't be able to live or work elsewhere in Europe
Britain will be taken less seriously and have less influence in the world
Other EU countries will be less willing to co-operate with Britain on things like combatting terrorism
Jobs will be less secure and there will be increased unemployment
Something else
None - there will be no negative effects at all from leaving the European Union

[The following question only asked to pro-Brexit supporters; n=821]

And if they DID happen, which ONE of the following would be most likely to convince you that Brexit was BAD for Britain?

Even if they happened, none of these would convince me Brexit was bad for Britain

The British economy went into recession

Goods and services became more expensive in the shops

Jobs become less secure and there is increased unemployment

Companies were less likely to invest in Britain without access to EU markets

Other EU countries were less willing to co-operate with Britain on things like combatting terrorism

Much of Britain's financial services industry moves to other European cities

British exporters found it harder to trade because of export barriers and tariffs

There is a reduction in regulations protecting workers rights and holiday entitlements

Britain was taken less seriously and had less influence in the world

British people were no longer able to live or work elsewhere in Europe

Which, if any, of the following do you think will be the most POSITIVE impacts from leaving the European Union? Please tick up to three.

There will be a reduction in immigration

Britain will have more freedom to trade with countries outside the EU

British businesses will face fewer rules and regulations

Government will have more freedom to intervene in the economy and help British companies

The British government will have more money to spend on public services

Britain will be able to strike better trade deals than we could get as part of the EU

There will be less competition for jobs from EU immigrants

European vessels won't be able to fish in British waters

Britain will be able to scrap human rights laws

Food and groceries will become cheaper in the shops

None - there will be no positive effects at all from leaving the European Union

[The following question only asked to anti-Brexit supporters; n=640]

And if they DID happen, which ONE of the following would be most likely to convince you that Brexit was GOOD for Britain?

Even if they happened, none of these would convince me Brexit was good for Britain

The British government had more money to spend on public services

Britain was able to strike better trade deals than we could get as part of the EU

Food and groceries became cheaper in the shops

Britain had more freedom to trade with countries outside the EU

There was be a reduction in immigration

Government had more freedom to intervene in the economy and help British companies

European vessels were no longer able to fish in British waters

British businesses faced fewer rules and regulations

There was be less competition for jobs from EU immigrants

Britain was able to scrap human rights laws

Don't know

The following questions contain some possible future relationships that Britain might negotiate with the rest of the European Union. In each case, please read the description of the outcome, and then answer the questions about it.

Imagine Britain left the EU on these terms:

Britain leaves the EU and does not sign any new trade deal with the rest of the EU, relying on World Trade Organisation rules. Britain does not have automatic access to European markets, and there are tariffs or other barriers on many British exports. Britain has full control over our borders and immigration, does not have to follow any EU regulations and does not have to contribute any money to the EU.

Do you think this outcome would be good or bad for Britain?

Would be good for Britain
Would not be good for Britain
Don't know

Imagine Britain left the EU on these terms:
Britain leaves the EU and instead agrees a free trade deal with the EU. Britain can export goods to the EU without paying tariffs, but the deal does not include services, so does not allow British industries like financial services to export freely to the EU. Britain has full control over our borders and immigration, does not have to follow any EU regulations and does not have to contribute any money to the EU.

Last week the High Court ruled that the government did not have the legal power to leave the European Union without the permission of Parliament, and that Parliament needed to have a vote before the formal process of leaving the EU can begin.

Whether or not you agree with them, do you think it was or was not legitimate for the High Court to rule on the government's legal powers in this way?

Was legitimate - it is right for the courts to rule on whether the government are exceeding their legal powers

Was not legitimate - the courts were interfering in political matters they should leave alone

Parliament should have to vote in favour for the government to begin the process of the leaving the European Union

Thinking about those politicians who genuinely feel that Brexit is a mistake and would be bad for Britain. Do you think they should...

Remain quiet about their views, the public have voted for Brexit and criticism can only damage confidence in the economy

Accept that Britain will leave the EU, but campaign to keep a very close relationship between the EU and Britain once we leave (a "soft Brexit")

Continue to oppose Britain leaving the EU and call for a new referendum to reverse the decision

Continue to oppose Britain leaving the EU and call for the referendum result to be set aside or ignored

Imagine that Parliament would NOT vote in favour of Brexit, and that there was instead an early general election. The Conservative party is led by Theresa May, Labour by Jeremy Corbyn, the Liberal Democrats by Tim Farron and UKIP by Paul Nuttall.

Imagine that the Conservative party, Labour and UKIP all promised to go ahead with Britain leaving the European Union, and the Liberal Democrats promised to hold a new referendum on EU membership. How would you then vote?
