

YouGov / London First Survey Results

Sample Size: 1422 London adults (aged 18+)

Fieldwork: 6th - 8th May 2014

	Voting intention				2010 Vote			Gender		Age				Social grade
Total	Con	Lab	Lib Dem	UKIP	Con	Lab	Lib Dem	Male	Female	18-24	25-39	40-59	60+	ABC1	C2DE
Weighted Sample	x	x	x	x	398	424	265	701	721	171	509	456	286	824	598
Unweighted Sample	1422	304	485	130	151	376	394	337	701	721	125	466	434	397	948	474
	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%	%

Who do you blame more for the recent strike on the underground ?

The RMT trade union	33	69	17	30	35	60	21	27	42	23	31	33	33	34	41	22
The management of London's underground, TfL	23	4	36	30	22	11	35	25	25	20	10	23	25	26	21	25
Both equally	32	23	35	28	33	23	35	37	25	38	25	31	34	33	29	34
Don't know	13	4	12	13	10	6	9	11	8	18	34	14	8	7	9	19

It has been suggested that the law should be changed to introduce a minimum turnout on union strike ballots, so a trade union can only go on strike if more than 50% of all employees (rather than all those voting) cast a vote, either for or against, for a strike to go ahead. This would make it more difficult for a Trade Union to go on strike. Would you support or oppose this change?

Support	56	88	42	52	67	80	39	56	58	55	60	55	55	59	62	48
Oppose	24	6	39	38	21	10	41	29	27	22	9	22	31	27	24	25
Don't know	19	6	19	10	13	10	20	15	15	23	31	23	14	14	14	27

Would you support or oppose a law declaring the London underground as an 'essential service' and banning ALL strikes by people working on the underground?

Support a ban on strikes on the underground	40	69	28	33	46	61	24	33	43	38	41	42	37	41	45	33
Oppose a ban on strikes on the underground	42	20	55	56	35	25	58	53	43	40	35	37	49	44	41	43
Don't know	18	11	16	11	18	14	17	15	14	22	24	21	14	15	14	24