There is currently a proposal to build a 'Thames garden bridge'; a 370m pedestrian crossing located between Waterloo and Blackfriars bridges, which will be covered with trees and plants. The project is expected to cost around £150m, with £30m coming from the government and the rest of the funding coming from the private sector. If approved, developers hope to start building next year and open it to the public by 2017.
