Recently, a dispute has arisen between Gibraltar and Spain, with Spain claiming that an artifical reef built by Gibraltar was interfering with their fishing vessels and Gibraltar claiming Spanish border agents has made it too difficult to cross the border into Spain, creating long waits and traffic congestion.

How do you think Britain should react to these events?

We should seek to solve the current problems through diplomatic discussions with Spain, but not negotiate over Gibraltar's future and whether it remains British We should open negotiations with Spain about the long term future of Gibraltar and whether it should remain British, become Spanish or become a joint territory We should send a Royal Navy ship to Gibraltar to assert Britain's ownership of Gibraltar None of these Don't know
