In the late 1970s Harriet Harman, Labour's current deputy leader, worked for the NCCL. In recent weeks newspapers have raised questions about her involvement with the NCCL when the Paedophile Information Exchange (PIE) were members, asking what she knew about the organisation and whether it influenced NCCL's policies. She denies that PIE exerted any influence. Do you think PIE probably did or did not exert any influence on NCCL?

Much of the reporting of this controversy has been done by the Daily Mail. Ms Harman has attacked the Daily Mail for hypocrisy, as its website sometimes shows girls under the age of consent in bikinis.
