If Scotland votes to become an independent country it would then need to negotiate independence arrangements with the rest of the United Kingdom before becoming independent in 2016. This would include the future of Scotland's currency. Alex Salmond has said he would like an independent Scotland to continue to use the pound as part of a currency union. The Conservative, Labour and Liberal Democrat parties have said that the rest of the United Kingdom would not agree to this.

If Scotland were to become independent, would you support or oppose Scotland continuing to use the pound as part of a currency union?

Britain's nuclear weapon system, Trident, is currently based in Scotland. In the event Scotland becomes independent the Scottish government have said they would not have nuclear weapons in their country, and would require the rest of Britain to remove their nuclear weapons from Scottish territory.

If Scotland were to become independent, do you think the remainder of the UK should...

Currently Britain is a signatory of the European Convention of Human Rights, meaning people can go to court if they feel their human rights have been abused and, ultimately, can take their case to you European Court of Human Rights. Some people think Britain should withdraw from the European Convention, while other people think we should remain a member.

Do you think Britain should or should not withdraw from the European Convention on Human Rights?
