National museums and galleries in the UK currently have free entry. Some have warned that they will have to cut back on opening hours and exhibits because of spending cuts. Would you support the re-introduction of entry charges if it meant current opening hours and exhibitions could be maintained?

I would support entry charges if it was the only way to avoid cuts to hours and exhibits	49	56	46	50	50	47	46	50	47	51	50	47	43	49	47	50	55
I would oppose entry charges, even if it meant cuts to hours and exhibits	42	36	47	41	43	41	38	40	46	42	43	41	47	43	42	41	38

Currently most people in Britain living in council accommodation have secure tenancies, meaning they can stay in their council house for as long as they wish, even if their economic or personal circumstances change. It has been suggested that in the future people should only be given council properties for a limited term, of perhaps 5 or 10 years, after which they would be assessed to see if they still qualified for council accommodation. Would you support or oppose such a change?

The coalition government have abolished the "Building Schools for the Future" programme, which would have funded the redevelopment of 715 secondary schools across the country.

Which of the following statements best reflects your view of this?

These are unacceptable cuts to education, and the government should have found savings elsewhere instead	38	13	72	31	40	36	40	37	42	34	36	40	39	33	39	43	38
The cuts are unfortunate, but given the state of the public finances there is no alternative	49	78	18	55	50	48	37	50	47	55	53	44	48	53	48	45	47
